How the wars of the near future will be fought and who will win them Many nations, peoples and special interest groups believe that violence will advance their cause. It diverged from Clausewitz in that its goal was not necessarily to destroy the enemy armed forces, but to maneuver to a position where they couldn't win, so they'd usually give up. ChapterfourGrandNarrativesofWarTheworld'smosthi-techweaponryseems The title expresses his general feelings - he doesn't like war, he's tired of it, and he's equally tired of pronouncements that either the whole nature of war or the aspects of human nature that cause war will somehow change because we're in a new millennium. China could fall out disastrously with Russia, or alternatively ally with Russia in contesting an American exercise of power in east Asia. Political, technological, social and religious forces are shaping the future Khan rated it it was amazing Feb 25, He has also served as a defence adviser both to the British and U.
