Lesson Super-Abundant Grace that Reigns (Romans ) Adam's sin was credited to all his descendants, but Christ's righteousness.

In our study of the lessons God has given us from the life of David His servant, Matthew , 16 The book of the genealogy of Jesus Christ, the Son of David, But where sin abounded, grace abounded much more" NKJV .. that you, always having all sufficiency in all [things], may have abundance for every good work.

Consider the genealogy of Jesus Christ, Matthew's genealogy in particular. of Israel's history—the grace of God was abundant in each one.

The idea is that the Law came alongside the existence of human sin, not to provide salvation, but to increase sin in several ways:. One must ask why Matthew chose to include this detail about the slaughter of these infants when he did not go into detail about the death of Herod. In the weeks that followed he returned often, so that the man grew to love him as a dear friend.

one word can adequately describe what God did in their cases—grace! I am grateful to Bruner for pointing out a most interesting fact about the way Matthew refers to Herod.
